GERMANS WILL HOLD OUT FOR ALLY PEACE IS LEADER'S PLAN

(Special to the Record-Herald.)

BERLIN, July 26.—Chancellor Michaelis declared before the Reichstag that the Germans "must hold out calmly and patiently until the allies announce their readiness to enter peace negotiations. "The territory of the fatherland is inviolable," he continued. "We can not parley with an enemy that demands part of our empire. Our frontiers must be made secure for all time. Peace must be built on the eternal reconciliation of nations. It must prevent nations from plunging into further enmities through economic blockades."

HERE IS HOW DRAFT PLAN LOTTERY WILL WORK OUT THRU U. S.

Here is the way the lottery plan used today works:

In each of the 4557 districts in the country, the men are numbered serially from one to the highest number of cards in that district. A number drawn from the glass globes establishes the draft number of every man holding that number in every district in the nation.

For instance, if 567 were the first capsule pulled out, the men holding 567 in every district having numbers as high as that is drafted and must report first in his district. Then if 45 is next, the men holding 45 in each district would be chosen second on the lists.

If a high number, such as 9876 should come third, it would be disregarded by the districts with lower numbers.

The first 1500 numbers drawn, officials said, ought to indicate a good proportion of the order in which the drafted men will be called up for examination in the smaller district.

As each tiny capsule was pulled out by the blindfolded men, it was handed to a uniformed officer. He announced the number in a loud voice. Three checkers entered it upon immense tally sheets.

Another chalked it up on the blackboard.

As soon as the 1000 numbers were chalked up, the blackboard was taken outside and photographed "close up." Thousands of copies of each picture are being made.

These indelible and unchangeable records will constitute the lists for the local exemption boards.

Officials estimated it would take nearly twelve hours to complete the drawing.

It is said that the matter of proposing peace terms for Germany and the Central Powers will rest with Bernstorff. This photo taken by Copic Service and copyright by Underwood and Underwood.

HUMANE OFFICER ARRESTS DRIVER

Edward Argeltiner, arrested for cruelty to animals, charged by County Humane Officer Calfee, secured his release today on a cash bail of $10. Argeltiner's arrest followed a reprimand from Calfee yesterday, that unless he allewed the animal to rest for a few days and fed it more, he would be taken into custody.

200 IS RICHMOND'S QUOTA FOR MILITARY DUTY; NUMBERS OUT

ROOM 226, SENATE OFFICE BUILDING, WASHINGTON, July 20.—America today drafted her youth for war against Kaiserism.

Starting at 9:30 o'clock in this garish chamber, blindfolded men drew the fated capsules bearing the draft numbers. Out through the country each number notified a youth of the order in which Uncle Sam wants him to respond to the call to arms.

Ten thousand five hundred numbers will be drawn and it will be night before the last pellet has been culled.

This methods was necessitated by achange in plans late yesterday, after several state boards were found to have blundered in preparing their lists.

It was a solemn scene.

Congress members—only a handful—Secretary of War Baker, General Enoch Crowder, chief of the draft and his aides, Major Johnson and Major Allen Gullion, moving picture men clicking off the scene and newsmen flashing out the numbers, were the only witnesses.

General Crowder enforced silence.

The drone of announcers, telling off the drawings was the only sound.

NOTE—Ignore all numbers higher than the total number on your exemption district. Your order of call is decided by the number of men drawn in your district. If there the 2812 registrations or names in your district, and the drawing goes 9642, 809, 1142, 6409, 211, 7001, etc., you are the third man draw in your district if your number is 211.

OUR NATIONAL DISGRACE.

Goodwin's Weekly, a magazine published in Salt Lake City by a veteran newspaper man of the Pacific Coast, declares that it is a disgrace that there should ever be occasion to talk about a scarcity of food or high prices for food in the United States.

Texas has a greater area than all the north German states combined, or to be exact, a landed area of 262,200 square miles, or 167,805,605 acres.

Giving two-thirds of that area to waste and pasture land, there are left 55,935,200 acres that will grow luxuriantly every plant needed for the food of man and animals, and she has plenty of white and black laborers to cultivate it. That would give every man, woman and child in the country the product of a half acre of land.

California has a greater landed area than all the British isles and her two great valleys, if properly cultivated, could supply food enough to feed al the people and all the domestic animals of the west coast.

France has an area of 207,051 square miles; Iowa has 56,025, Missouri 69,918, and Kansas 82,080—these three states exceeding France by 1,567 square miles.

Moreover, these three states have vastly more land fit for cultivation than has France. All told, we have named but five of our forty-eight states, but these five have a greater area and are vastly richer agricultural states than Great Britain, France and Germany taken together.

The capacity for food production of the remaining forty-three states is almost beyond estimation and we have but 100,000,000 people to feed. Why then should common vegetables and bread be held at famine prices in such a land: why the daily fear advertised of a possible scarcity of provisions and the advisability of laying in a store of supplies?

There can be but three reasons. One is that the men in the agricultural states are too indolent to see that their lands are cultivated: second, the combination of middlemen who rob the farmers on one hand and the consumers on the other; and the laxity of the authorities in not keeping track of the proceeds of the respective states and the amounts exported.

In Utah, for instance, larger and larger areas are being devoted to the cultivation of sugar beets, while no corresponding acreage has been planted to the ordinary food products; and all the while the population has been steadily increasing.

No one, apparently, has sounded the warning of what this tendency would lead to, with the result that the people are suddenly confronted with almost prohibitory prices for the common products of field and garden.

These things show how utterly careless and unthoughtful the American people have grown, or for that matter, always have been. Perhaps a stubborn war will teach them some needed lessons. But the fact still remains that it is a shame and a disgrace for common food products to command famine prices and keep the people in constant apprehension of starvation.

After sampling it, both branches of congress agree that the oratory of Balfour is the real thing.

PRICE OF BEET SUGAR.

Here is an item clipped from an exchange that should be of interest to every person in the United States, whether they be interested in the growing of sugar beets or simply the rank and file of sugar consumers:

The government of Holland has fixed a maximum price on sugar of 9.21 cents per pound wholesale and 9.40 cents retail. These prices include a consumption or excise tax of 4.92 cents per pound, so that the net amount received by the sugar factory is 4.29 cents a pound.

In this country the average price received by the sugar factories is said to be 8.40 cents per pound, and the government does not collect any excise tax.

In Holland the farmers get $10.85 per ton for their beets and in this country the average is said to be $6.17 per ton.

If the sugar factories of Holland can afford to sell the sugar for 4.29 cents per pound while paying the farmers $10.85 for the beets, can't the American factories afford to be a little more generous to the growers?

Magnanimous of the District of Columbia to notify the government of its willingness to supply all the civilian help that may be needed.

Secretary Lane gave us all a cud to chew when he said: "That war will be fought on this side of the Atlantic, if we do not beat Germany to it."

Whatever may have been, it's doubted that the agricultural department figures showing a 30 per cent waste of food in American homes hold good today.

A brand new Solomon loudly announces that the ex-czar was unprepared for his tumble off the royal pedestal.

Lots of law-abiding people have been thinking what was said in open senate about hanging a few grub gamblers.

An attempt to buy a nation's good will—Germany's offer to pay Argentinia for a torpedoed ship and to salute its flag.

Possibly those objecting to sending American soldiers to Europe would prefer that they fight an invading army at home.

If present laws cannot stop food speculating, it's up to congress to make some that can and will.

Greece wants to be a republic and with the republics stand, all right, there's always room for another.

Another big "dry" wave—after May 9 England will not permit the use of grain to make intoxicants.

Bet Bob La Follette would not serve as a soldiers elector, even if Wilson personally requested him to.

Lobbying to weaken Wilson's war plans makes a noise like treason, and deserves the same treatment.

To argue that 2-cent letter postage would increase revenues is to buck against official postal records.

RED CROWN GASOLINE

Easy Starting

A Continuous Chain of Boiling Points

High Boiling Points for power & mileage

Medium Boiling Points for quick and smooth acceleration

Low Boiling Points for easy starting

Low boiling points do it—the first links in a continuous chain of boiling points. Low boiling points for easy starting, medium boiling points for quick and smooth acceleration, and high boiling points for power and mileage.

Red Crown is a straight-distilled gasoline. Hence there's a continuous chain of boiling points, gradually rising from low to high.

Mixtures cannot have a continuous chain of boiling points. That's why mixtures cannot be as good motor fuel as pure straight-run gasoline. And that's also why the gravity test for gasoline is worthless—gravity tells nothing at all about boiling points—the only real test of gasoline quality.

To make certain of getting real gasoline, and not a mixture, fill with

GREAT BRITISH WAR PICTURES AT THE RICHMOND

Fannie Ward, Lasky Star, In Paramount Pictures.

There will be another big double bill at the Richmond T. & D. theater today in which the British Official War Pictures will head the bill. These pictures are growing more and more interesting, as each one of the serial is shown. These pictures were taken for war purposes in England and not for exhibition purposes really. They were obtained under consent of the English Red Cross and the funds from their exhibition goes to that purpose.

The display of beautiful morning, afternoon and evening gowns which will be worn by Fannie Ward in the Lacky-Paramount production of "Unconquered," and will be a delight to the feminine patrons of the Paramount theaters.

"GIO GRANDE" HIT OF ORPHEUM BILL THIS WEEK

Theatergoers seem inclinde to regard "Rio Grande," at the Oakland Orpheum as the most pretentious production made there this summer. Intrest in the play being indicated both by the splendid patronage accorded it, and the unsual amount of talk concerning the play.

Of course it is not every day that a new play from the pen of such a dramatist as Augustus Thomas is staged in a Pacific Coast theater. Even less frequent are the times that a dramatist gives a production his personal supervision, as Augustus Thomas did when "Rio Grande" was staged at the Alcazar theater in San Francisco by Richard Bennet last month. Augustus Thomas came from New York to supervise that production of his play. Thomas is famous for his skill and power as a stage director. The result was evident in the beautiful stage setting and the effective presentation of "Rio Grande" at the Alcazar.

PASTOR TO HOLD PRISON SERVICES

WATCH THIS SPACE EVERY DAY AND SAVE MONEY

There are always two ways to look at it

A country merchant showed a farmer a buggy, priced at $90, and the farmer kicked, because twenty years ago his father bought one just like it for $60.

Then the merchant looked up the sale and found that the father had turned in 300 bushels of corn for that buggy and he told the farmer's son to deliver to him 500 bushels of corn and he would give him:

1—$ 90 buggy.
1—$ 75 wagon.
1—$ 20 suit of clothes.
1—$ 20 dress.
1—$ 5 baby dress.
$ 10 worth of Cameron Shirts.
$ 10 worth of Can't Bust 'Em Overalls.
$ 10 worth of sugar.
$ 10 worth of tea.
$100 worth of gasoline.
$ 15 worth of lubricating oil.

The total figures $365.00, as the value of 300 bushels of corn, and it is needless to say that the high cost of living disappeared from the farmer's mind and he bought the buggy.

Some such reckoning as this might be a good thing for those people who never stop to consider the other fellow's troubles.
